Cost Him $200 For Getting Drunk

The first case to be tried under the new liquor act in Didsbury was heard by J. E. Bender, J. P., on Thursday morning when a young man who had imbibed too freely of the cup that cheers and got over loaded on Fair night, and who misbehaved himself outrageously, was heard. Const. Jarman of the A. P. P., Olds, laid the complaint.

Accused pleaded guilty and the J. P. imposed a fine of $200 including costs.

The Largest and Best Stock Show Ever Held in Didsbury

Wednesday will go down into the records of the Didsbury Agricultural Society as the day of the best Exhibition they ever held. The weather was ideal, the crowd large the sports fine, most important of all the livestock classes were so exceedingly well filled with some of the best horses, cattle and swine that can be found anywhere in Alberta that the officers and directors had to hustle the day before the Fair to increase the showing space and sheds.

The horse classes were splendid and was a great object lesson showing that this district is coming back rapidly to its old time reputation of raising first class utility grade of horseflesh. The many four-horse teams shown in competition was a magnificent sight as was also the ladies' riding horse classes. The pony classes also caused a great deal of enthusiastic commendation.

The cattle classes were a picture and the splendidly large exhibit of such excellent dairy cattle as the Holsteins exhibited by M. Weber, H. Erb, A. Chamberlain and others made a sight that was well worth anybody's and everybody's attention, and was an excellent advertisement for the dairy interests of the district.

The swine classes were so filled that a number of new pens had to be built and the fine exhibit of porkers also brought to the attention of the visitors the fact that the Didsbury district is fast becoming a center for raising the best class of swine. Messrs. Ben Frasci and O. Spivey were heavy exhibitors in these classes.

The sheep classes were small but there were a few splendid specimens shown.

The ladies exhibits such as fancy work, baking and preserves did not seem to be up to our former fairs as far as quantity was concerned but the quality seemed to be there.

One feature that is generally very interesting at our shows, the butter classes, were exceptionally poor in number of exhibits although what was shown looked to be of a very fine quality.

The sports end of the exhibition was excellently arranged and run off and the enthusiasm of the large crowd present in some of the events was unbounded and the races were well worth seeing. The novelty horse race and the prairie schooner race as well as the pony races were excellent.

The baseball game in the afternoon had to be called off but Olds and Didsbury came together in the evening and played on the regular diamond, Olds losing to Didsbury.

The Olds band must be mentioned, they contributed largely to the enjoyment of the afternoon and their music was exceptionally well rendered considering their recent reorganization.

President D. Dippel, Manager J. V. Berscht, Secretary G. Wrigglesworth and the Fair Directors are to be highly congratulated on running such a successful exhibition this year. The sports committee headed by Geo. Julien and Secretary J. R. Miller also deserve great commendation on the way the sports were handled. The whole affair was excellent.

We have not the time or the space to mention the prize winners this week but hope to publish them in the near future.

A dance will be held in Jack Johnson's barn a week from this Friday. The music will be good and a fine crowd is expected.

Mr. J. P. Burns Meets Sudden Death

The community was shocked early on Monday afternoon when the report came into town that Mr. J. P. Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Burns of Didsbury, had met with an accident and was instantly killed at noon.

It appears that he and his brother, George, with whom he was in partnership, had driven up to the barns to unhitch when by some means the team became frightened and John was knocked down, the buggy passing over him and fracturing his skull, killing him instantly. Dr. J. L. Clarke, coroner, and Const. Jarman of the A. P. P. were quickly on the scene of the accident but decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The accident occurred on the Burns Bros. farm about 12 miles northeast of Didsbury.

He came here in 1901 with his father and mother from Greenbank Ont., and has resided here ever since with the exception of five years that he lived at Hanna, Alta.

John was 36 years of age and a member of the Presbyterian church and was unmarried. He was also a member of King Hiram Lodge, A. F. and A. M. and his death cast a gloom over Masonic circles because of the loss of a brother who promised to become an efficient and honored member. A sad feature of his death in Masonic circles was the fact that he was to have completed his Masonic degrees on the Tuesday following his death.

Besides his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. James Burns of Didsbury, he leaves to mourn his loss five brothers: G. A. of Didsbury; Spencer, of Hanna; Charles of Lloydminster; A. R. of Greenbank, Ont.; and R. J. of Calgary.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday morning and were under Masonic auspices. A very impressive service was conducted at the Presbyterian church which was packed to the doors and a very large number of people were unable to get in. King Hiram Lodge A. F. & A. M. then took charge of the proceedings, the pall bearers being composed of V. Wor. Bro. Studer, Rt. Wor. Bro. Bruno Bros. F. Osmond, J. A. Russell, J. Scrutton and S. McAllister. The simple Masonic ceremony at the graveside was conducted by Rev. Bro. McNutt and the Wor. Master J. L. Clarke, assisted by his Wardens, Officers and brethren, Wor. Bro. W. G. Evans being Master of Ceremonies all through the Masonic ceremonial.

The community sincerely sympathizes with the bereaved parents and family in the sudden death of a beloved son and brother, who has always been esteemed as an upright, conscientious and hard working young man during the great many years he has lived here, and everyone hopes that the sudden shock to his father, who has been ill for some time, will have no serious effects.

He was also a past President of the Burnside U. F. A., having joined this local four years ago when it was first formed. His is the first death in this local since its formation.

BORN—At the Royal Alexandra hospital, Edmonton, on Friday, July 25th, to Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Clark, a daughter, Dorothy Jane.

BORN—At the Didsbury General Hospital, Thursday, August 7th, to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dippel, a son.

Miss H. Alfrey of Carstairs has been visiting with Miss Florence Rieber.

Several practical reasons decided his next move. He put both of the accused natives under open arrest. Cell room at police quarters was at a premium and food of the sort the natives required was difficult to prepare in a white man's kitchen. The health of the prisoners, which must be his concern until the court had passed on their guilt, was certain to be better if they lived under native conditions. Friends and relatives were more than ready to take them in for sustenance allowance he granted each. After making them understand that they were not to leave camp under penalty of his wrath, he turned them loose—a parole, it may be said here, that was not broken.

The happiest weeks in Russell Seymour's memory were those that immediately followed. With his lone constable bedfast, his presence at or near headquarters was required unless some dire emergency arose. For once, he thanked his lucky stars that nothing happened to break the joyous monotony.

For a week, Moira, in her role of nurse, spent most of her days at the post. While she was kindness itself to La Marr and anticipated most of his wants, there was no doubt that her real interest was in the sergeant. A close friendship sprang up as they found many interests in common and exchanged life stories with endless detail. At that, each had their mental reservations. Nothing the girl said, for instance, threw any light on her real reason for making her unseasonable and unexpected northward dash. And his lips never hinted that he was hopelessly in love.

In holding back, however, the girl had every advantage over the man. She did not need word of mouth to tell her the state of his feelings. Indeed, her worry was over the promptness of her own heart, as she confided to Emma Morrow. Was propriety disturbing her judgment, and isolation distorting her viewpoint? She feared a mistake that might make them both unhappy in the future. With a tact that at times made her feel cruel both to him and herself, she held the situation level with the spirit of friendship.

Her attitude was made easy by the more active wooing of Harry Karmack. The handsome factor was not held back by any sense of poverty, which is felt perforce by anyone who had little but his police pay, a far from princely dote. Karmack was as persistent as circumstances and Moira would permit; quite too impetuous, in fact, for the comfort of one whose interests were divided.

For a time, the girl was put to it to keep the two apart. When they both "made" Mission House at the same time, she felt that she was spending the evening in a TNT factory. While the men never actually clashed physically, she felt certain that only Seymour's military discipline kept them apart. At last, she was forced to put them on schedule, giving each two evenings a week, but with understanding that they were not to come even on their assigned nights unless she previously sent them word. The need for such an expedient could hardly arise "Outside," but she saw no other way out of the difficulty in Armistice, unless she was ready to undertake a "for-better-or-worse" decision. And out of this situation grew Russell Seymour's greatest despair.

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a severe pain in my side. I would be unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I had this for about two years, then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had had good results. I certainly got good results from it, too, as the last time I had a sore side was last May and I have not had it since. I am also glad of having good nursing for my baby, and I think it is your medicine that helped me in this way."—Mrs. L. V. BUDGE, River Desert, Quebec.

The first of his evenings arrived, but no summons from the Irish beauty. The next afternoon, with Mrs. Morrow, she dropped in at police headquarters to cheer the convalescing constable. She chose a time when she must have known the sergeant was afield exercising the police team of malamutes. Also, according to La Marr, she had not been indisposed the previous evening.

A second of Seymour's scheduled visits passed into the discard of time with no word from her, and then a third. Belag an exponent of direct action, Seymour decided to learn the reason for this sudden change which, to him, was unexplainable. He made certain she had not started on her daily snow-shoes sprint about the camp, an exercise of which she was fond and at which, for a girl, something of an expert. Mid-afternoon, he presented himself at Mission House. Luke Morrow admitted him; carried his request for an interview.

More anxious than he dared to admit, even to himself, the sergeant waited, his fingers crunching the fur of his cap as he paced the living room. Even before Morrow spoke on returning, he knew the beauty's thumbs were down. The missionary's expression was too sympathetic for any answer.

"Miss O'Malley asks that you'll excuse her, sergeant," was his formal report.

"Is she ill?"

"Not physically, I'm afraid."

Seymour was too dazed for his pride to come into action. To be turned away without a word didn't seem fair. What's more, it wasn't at all like Moira O'Malley. Surely he had the right to know his fault—his crime?

"Thunderin' icebergs, Luke Morrow! Tell me what I've done to be treated like this?" he demanded.

"I'm sure I can't imagine, Russell."

"Does Madame Emma know?"

The sky-pilot shook his head. "Moira has not mentioned your name to either of us since the last evening you spent here." He hesitated a moment. "She does know at last that her brother was murdered—that such was the accident of the Arctic we reported to her."

"Then she thinks I'm responsible for trying to soften that ordeal?" Even as he asked, however, he felt certain that there must be something more of a misunderstanding than that.

"I took full responsibility for our not telling her the full details," said Morrow. "You'll remember I first suggested—"

"Then Karmack must have—"

He did not finish, but flung himself out the door. Before the missionary could utter a word of caution or advise moderation, Sergeant Seymour was plowing the trail for the Arctic's establishment.

CHAPTER X. Hard Knuckles

If it is true, as Kipling says, that "single men in barracks don't grow into plaster saints," it is doubly true of the same in lonely detachment shacks of the Royal Mounted scattered about the Arctic foreshore. Living week upon week with the thermometer at the breaking point, with the momentary sun blacked out for days in swirling snow, with a sameness of grub that fairly gnaws the appetite, the wonder is that they carry through with even members of their own outfit.

Suddenly mix in with this condition of life an attractive, unattached, unexpected white woman and you have a yeast more potent than dynamite. Let some outsider stir the mixture with the ladle of false witness and surely the dough overflows the pan.

As he descended upon the trading post and the tricky factor, Russell Seymour was scarcely a staff non-com of the Royal Mounted. For the moment he was simply a he-man who happened to be encased in the king's scarlet. Even as he was accustomed to express regard for the rights of others, so was he ready to defend his own. A dangerous man for the time being and one with an initial advantage over Karmack, for Seymour's nerve was backed by morality and right.

He did not trouble to knock on the door of the factor's living quarters, but yanked at the latch-string. Finding no one in the comparatively luxurious living room, he stamped into the store, a low-ceilinged 36 x 24. Along one wall were shelves on which were displayed the "junk" that goes to make an Arctic trader's stock. Protecting these notions, generally more than less unsuited for customer's use, was a counter. From the ceiling along the other wall, depended the furs and pelts that had been taken in barter and not yet baled for shipment to the marts of trade where women would pay whatever price the market exacted that they might adorn themselves.

Harry Karmack was there, standing over some fox skins just taken at a fraction of their value from one of the Indian hunters who had come up from the South. If he was surprised at the unannounced visit by way of his living quarters, his face did not betray it. It was a perfect mask.

"You've been making yourself quite a stranger sergeant," he said, his tone pleasant enough. "It's the very devil what a havoc woman can make of man-to-man friendships up here in the Frozen North. Is it possible you've come to whimper at my success with Moira—Miss O'Malley, the finest woman—"

"Not to whimper, Karmack," Seymour cut in.

"Best take your medicine, sergeant. As a mere Arctic cop, on next to nothing a year, you never had a chance to be anything more to her than an entertaining decoration. From now on, you won't even decorate."

Under this insult-to-injury, Seymour held himself with the stoutest grip. "I came," he declared with an ominous outward calm, "to learn just what you said to Miss O'Malley when you broke our pact of silence about Oliver's murder."

"Oh, I said just that—told her as gently as possible certain facts. It was high time she knew. Did you expect me to ask your august permission after what has happened?"

The factor put away the pelts he had been examining on Seymour's entry and, with casual manner, came from behind the counter. On the open floor of the store the rivals faced each other.

"You told her more than the facts in this case, Karmack," the sergeant said, his words dragging with earnest emphasis. "I'm here to know what you said and know I will—even if I am compelled to bash you up."

Karmack laughed harshly, perhaps to show a confidence which he just may have felt, knowing how long suffering the Mounties are by hard training and practice.

"Threatening violence, eh?" said the factor with a sneer. "Thinking of using your police power to repair your shattered romance? Dear eyes, what a blooming bone to pull!"

"I'm not here as a policeman and I'll lay aside the tools of my trade."

Unhooking the belt that held a holstered revolver to his hip, he placed the accoutrements upon the counter at the end nearest the front door. Beside them he laid a "come along," a small steel article with chain attachment useful in handling refractory prisoners. With his long arms swinging loosely at his sides, he strode back to face the factor.

"Now, Karmack, what else did you tell the girl?"

"Perhaps I showed her how careless kind you are to Avic, named by the coroner's jury as her brother's murderer." The handsome factor was enjoying himself. "Of course it would be likely to please her, seeing the only suspect yet named wandering about the camp at will, living in idleness on your bounty, likely to slope off into the snows and never be heard from again."

"The Eskimo is under open arrest—regular enough under the circumstances. I'll stand—"

Seymour caught himself. He did not need to defend his official conduct to this trouble maker. Moreover, he felt that Karmack must have gone further with his insinuations. The matter and manner of Avic's custody might have carried the girl to him in protest, with demand for an explanation; tion; but it was not enough to have brought about an utter break without a word.

"Let's hear the rest of it, Karmack—the whole damnable misrepresentation." Fingers twitching beside the yellow stripe of his trousers showed his tension.

"Perhaps I told her about the foxes—the silver and black!" The factor's tone was triumphant.

Seymour's expression was too well schooled to betray any surprise at this unexpected thrust. "What about the fox pelts?"

"They disappeared, didn't they, most mysteriously? They were in the hut when you left it under seal the night of your return and Moira's arrival. The hut still was sealed when you took the coroner's jury there the next day, but the pelts were not. The jury never saw them. That's what about the fox pelts."

Seymour's lips were as white as the freshly drifted snow outside and his voice as cold as the temperature when he asked what the factor meant to insinuate.

"IT'S NO MATTER"

When a girl or boy is slovenly, with tousled head and dirty hands; or washes the faces and forgets the ears; or leaves a high water mark around the neck, and mother makes a remark on the way things look to her, the girl or boy says, "Oh, it's no matter." And first thing they know, a fox has bitten off a green leaf in their garden.

Or John makes a mistake and the teacher corrects it, and John says, "Oh, it's no matter."

Foolish John!

Say, boy, did you know an architect once made plans for a great building and when he went to work it out, nothing fitted, because away back in the beginning he made a mistake of an inch with his ruler, and it put the whole thing out of joint?

Or Mary, her mother's pride, did not put into her work quite enough time. She fooled over it and played with it—and when the examination results came out, she failed. And when she saw her mother's sad face, she tried to comfort her by saying, "Oh, it's no matter!"

It seems so dreadful to see a man who has grown up to think things do not matter. His looks—"Oh, well, what's the odds how I look?"

Of course, it is only when he is married or else settled into a grouchy old bachelor he says this. If he is still looking forward—Huh! That makes a difference!

Some young fellows were once lounging about the street corner, when one of them saw a bright young girl coming down the street, and say! he went away so fast his companions wondered what had happened. Well, he did not want her to see him, for he felt it would matter very much for him if she saw his careless street life.

Or his clothes.—Sometimes you can almost tell what he had for dinner by the spots on his vest; and the whole thing started a long time earlier, when as a little boy he said, "It's no matter!"

And it is just the same with the girl. She grows up with a faded character and lopsided gait, and looks as though what she wore had been thrown at her with a pitchfork and sort of lodged on her person.

Sometimes she is real clever and knows a lot, but oh, the pity! She did not think her appearance mattered, and there she is, so that people look at her when she passes, and laugh.

It is very much worse, though, to let that spirit get past your body and your clothes and your outer habits, into the inside of you.

For then, when people see you doing things and saying things you should not—things that make people look at you—the old habit, started when you were a girl or boy, comes out, and you think it does not matter. But it does.

It matters whether you are loving or unloving. It matters whether you are kind or ugly in temper. It matters whether you are at the foot of the class or its head. It matters whether you are neat or just a disorderly heap. It matters whether you are a sunbeam or a shadow. It matters whether you are growing up straight or with a lean.

It makes a big difference.

Of course it matters, silly child! If it didn't matter, God would never have given us so many lessons in nature and history and biography.

Nearly everything in God's great world is telling us that—

"Life is real,
Life is earnest."

And it has an end; and it will be a poor end for her or for him who starts by saying, "It's no matter!"

There was a fellow once did that in a great rugby game. He failed, and the team lost the match and the trophy.

A slip may seem small, but we can slip and fall, and do slovenly work once too often—and lose the game of life!

It does matter! It matters to God! It matters to you, and it matters to all who love you!

STOMACH TROUBLE DUE TO THIN BLOOD

It Usually Disappears When the Blood Is Made Rich and Red

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble. It affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. This is shown by an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood enriching pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are vigorous instead of irritable and listless. If your appetite is feeble, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion, you should at once take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and profit by the better condition in which they will put your blood.

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Forward! be not dismayed! What if in mud you're arrayed? Forward! be not afraid!

For so were heroines made, Rider and steed so brave.

What if there's mud before you? What if there's mud behind you?

What if there's mud beside you? What if water above and below?

What if the thunder roars, And the lightning flashes?

What if down the rain pours And the wee horse splashes?

No shelter you crave.

What if others enjoy light of fire-side?

What if others are cosy and warm?

What if you are soaked to the hide?

'Twill surely do you no harm.

What if you are outside and cold?

While others are inside and warmed;

You must go to and from school

Just to keep the kids, well child-

Ah! fortunate creature!

Then, Forward! be not dismayed!

What if your cheque is delayed?

While every sort of fuss is made,

And through miles of slush you wade:

You're a teacher!

Home Training And Respect For Law

There is widespread discussion at the present time as to the cause of the crime wave sweeping over the continent, not so much in Canada, as in the United States, although this Dominion is also affected. As a matter of fact, Canada can never wholly escape influences emanating from the United States, whether they be good or bad, and if conditions, customs, laxity in law enforcement, or any other circumstance leads to the development of criminal instincts and acts in the United States, this Dominion is sure to suffer therefrom to some extent. Canadians are, therefore, vitally interested in the trend of events across the line.

Chicago, for example, has a record of a murder a day for the first six months of this year, a fact to which the appalling crime of which the two youths, Loeb and Leopold, stand confessed, has directed more than passing attention. Everywhere the question is being asked: What is the cause of this crime wave?

There are undoubtedly more causes than one, and consequently many answers are given. Some blame it on the war and to the fact that for four years human life and property were the cheapest commodities in the world, and millions of men became almost indifferent to the shedding of human blood. But any such answer is palpably insufficient.

Others declare the underlying cause is disrespect for law, and many who advance this reason point to the utter contempt and open defiance of the Prohibition laws by thousands of otherwise good citizens as the chief reason for prevailing disrespect of all law. But it is open to question whether individuals have less respect for prohibitory liquor laws than they have for our strict Sunday observance laws, or Customs laws. It is unfortunately true that few people are inclined to resist the temptation to smuggle something if the opportunity presents itself.

Nevertheless it is no doubt true that disrespect for law has a great deal to do with the crime wave. But the underlying cause is deeper than that. It must be first discovered what has resulted in this disrespect for law. There is, of course, the propaganda of the I.W.W.'s, the Bolsheviks, the Red Communists, who would defy all law and destroy the existing order of society. But the real cause is to be found nearer home.

Disrespect for law is being encouraged and developed among the boys and girls of today through the laxity of parents in enforcing proper respect and obedience at home; through their failure to instruct their children to recognize and respect the rights of other people and other people's property; by their neglect to train children to be above all things honest, truthful and honorable; because, in fact, parents themselves are guilty of deceit in their dealings with children, and fail to inculcate ideals of honor and Golden Rule principles in the lives of the rising generation. Too many parents today leave such training to the church and the school, but these can never replace the home, and home training; the best they can do is to further develop and strengthen right ideals in thought and living.

Children are brought up on fables. First, there is the Santa Claus fable, instead of early teaching that the giving of gifts at Christmas time is symbolic of the giving of God's greatest gift to mankind. Thus the opportunity to teach unselfish thought and action for others is lost, and the great lesson that it is more blessed to give than to receive neglected.

Then, arising out of a false conception of life, comes the deceit where parents explain the appearance of a new baby to the older children as a gift from a stork, whereas the opportunity of reverently instructing the older boys and girls in the true meaning of love and the mysteries of life should be embraced. As they grow older children remember such hypocrisy and come to the conclusion that if it was right for father and mother to deceive them, it cannot be otherwise than right to practice deceptions themselves. When truth is thrown into the discard the chief foundation stone of respect for law is undermined.

In the evidence brought out in the trial of Loeb and Leopold to establish that they were not normal mentally, there have been some amazing disclosures of mistakes made in their early training, clearly establishing that bad wisper measures been taken their whole future would have been radically different.

It is in the matter of home training that a revolution for the better must be worked if the basic cause of crime is to be removed. If children lose respect for parents and teachers, it is an easy step to lose respect for law, and then lawlessness follows as an inevitable result.

Alberta Straw Industry

Will Manufacture Paper From Surplus Quantities Of Straw

Howard Stutchbury, Provincial Trade Commissioner, is expecting an early and favorable report from the Government Laboratories at Ottawa, regarding the samples of paper manufactured from Alberta cereal straw, which were forwarded a few weeks ago.

Alberta straw has proved to be a highly economical and satisfactory substitute for wood pulp in the manufacture of paper, and as soon as a report is received from the east, it is anticipated that the product will be placed on the market.

Several capitalists here, it is said, are prepared to finance the new manufacture, which should eventually utilize the vast surplus quantities of straw in the province, and also release large tracts of timber from the certainty of destruction.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Products of the Forest

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to banish them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Protection For Autos

Placed at the top of curbs and cliffs and at approaches to bridges, a close-woven wire fence painted white has proved to be a far better protection against automobile accidents than stone walls or wooden rails have been. Such a fence has both strength and resiliency. An automobile cannot break through it, and at reasonable speed a car that hits it neither is injured itself nor injures the fence.

Winter Race Track

Race track interests of the United States and Western Canada are quietly investigating the possibility of building a winter track on an island near Vancouver, and holding races throughout the winter, together with large training quarters for the racing stock of the North American tracks.

Copper Production

Copper production in Canada in 1923 amounted to 86,881,527 pounds, valued at $12,529,186, as against 42,879,818 pounds, worth $5,738,177, according to a report of the Bureau of Statistics. Production was confined to the province of Ontario and British Columbia, which produced 31,656,800 pounds, worth $4,565,227 and 55,224,727 pounds, valued at $7,963,186 respectively.

The arrival at Halifax of the British Special Service Squadron was coincident with the celebration of the 175th anniversary of the founding of Halifax by Lord Cornwallis, when he, with 2,000 pioneers, sailed up Chouin Bay in 1749 and landed on the site of the present city.

Division In Oberammergau

People Are Criticizing Visit Of Players To America

Oberammergau is not the peaceful village that it was before Anton Lang and his wood carving companions went to America early this year. Local opponents of the trip to the United States have gained reinforcements since the return of the Lang party, and the town has divided into bitter Lang and anti-Lang groups.

The anti-Lang forces assert that the American visit of the Oberammergau players was an attempt to commercialize the Passion Play, that the trip was a financial failure, and they have threatened to sabotage the next production of the performance scheduled for 1923.

Anton Lang himself has held aloof from his critics thus far, and refuses to answer them, contending that the charges are unfounded, and avers that the Passion Play will not suffer from criticism or jealousies of individuals.

Save Fuel in Cooking

The illustration shows an interesting test. You should try in your own kitchen. It proves the superiority of good enameled ware for cooking purposes. Take an SMP Enameled Ware Sauce Pan, and a sauce pan of equal size made of aluminum, tin or other metal. Into each pour a quart of cold water. Set both sauce pans over the fire. The water in the SMP Enameled Ware Sauce Pan will be boiling merrily in about five minutes, while the water in the all-metal sauce pan will come to the boil in about eight minutes—three minutes longer. Save fuel in cooking. Use

ARE WILLING TO CONSIDER PLANS FOR H. B. ROAD

Ottawa.—Hon. George Graham, Minister of Railways, indicated his willingness to discuss "any reasonable proposition" for the taking over of the Hudson's Bay Railway.

Informally, a proposition of the kind has been put before some of the ministers, but Mr. Graham stated that he had not considered it to be very definite. He thinks the case is one in which the western provinces should have a vital say.

"If they come forward with, or in support of, a scheme for taking over and completing the line, the Government will be glad to negotiate about it with them," said the Minister of Railways.

In the recent discussion in the House, when a motion of censure on the Government was moved for not completing the line, hostility to the scheme as an ocean outlet was indicated plainly. As a colonization line it was more favored, but it was evident that missionary work will be needed on all sides including the Progressives before there is parliamentary endorsement of it. A new prospect is opened up in the possibility of private or provincial interests acquiring and completing the line.

Would Stop Abuse Of Word "British"

Bill Dealing With Company Organization Introduced in House

London.—A bill providing that where limited liability companies use the word "British" as part of their trading name, all the directors shall be British, and that 51 per cent. of the shareholders shall be British born or British by naturalization, was introduced in the House of Commons by S. J. R. Remer, Conservative, and given first reading.

Mr. Remer said there were public companies that, ostensibly, were British, but were simply cloaking their foreign nationality under the title. He cited the case of a recently registered concern with three directors, one of whom was an unnaturalized Russian, who had eight-ninths of the share capital, another a naturalized British subject born in Lithuania, and the third a naturalized citizen of the United States born in Russia. This company dealt in aeroplanes.

Determined To End Revolutionary Menace

Governor Of Bengal Issues Warning Of Drastic Action

Calcutta.—The British authorities will use every means in their power to defeat "the revolutionary menace" in Bengal, the Earl of Lytton, Governor of Bengal, declared in an address at Dacca.

The Governor said there was an exceptionally difficult and anxious time ahead, adding: "We are quite strong enough to deal with the revolutionary menace and we shall not shrink from using, fearlessly and unhesitatingly, all the weapons necessary for its defeat."

Bad Floods In India

Estimated Deaths Are 100 and 50,000 Persons Homeless

Madras, British India.—The floods in Southern India which, according to previous dispatches, submerged half the state of Cochin, caused at least 100 deaths at Malabar, according to official reports. The loss of life elsewhere was comparatively small.

It is estimated that 50,000 persons are homeless while thousands of acres of crops have been ruined.

There has also been a severe outbreak of cholera in the province of Madras and subsistence relief is urgently needed. Money for the purchase of seed, cattle and building material is badly needed also.

Toronto.—"Action is to be taken immediately against those who have neglected, or refused, to pay their double liability in connection with the Home Bank, or who have not put in a defence against their liability," said C. T. Clarkson, liquidator of the Home Bank.

Grading Of Bacon Necessary To Capture British Market

Toronto.—The Ontario farmer is better off than his brother across the Atlantic, but he must produce goods of first-class quality in order to capture the English market, said Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture in Ontario, on his return from a tour of Britain and the continent. Grading of bacon is essential if Canada is to compete in the Mother Country with Denmark, said Mr. Martin. Agricultural workers will be available from Scotland and Ireland, but not many from England. Scandinavia and Holland, however, may send a good quota to Ontario.

British Squadron Welcomed

Nova Scotia and Halifax City at Home To Visiting Tars

Halifax.—Nova Scotia and Halifax City extended official welcomes to Vice-Admiral Sir E. L. Field and the British special service squadron in the historic council chamber of the provincial building here.

Admiral Field, in replying to the addresses, happily set forth three reasons for the world tour of the fleet, namely: To test the latest type of ships under all conditions of climate; to give to the personnel of the fleet the opportunity of seeing the great trade routes of the Empire and to give to the peoples of the Dominions the knowledge that, despite the difficulties consequent upon the great war, Great Britain was still keeping up her navy as far as possible.

The addresses presented by the province and the city spoke of the close and happy relationship that had always existed between Halifax and the British navy, the port having been the headquarters of the North Atlantic fleet of the British navy from 1749 until the "period when requirements of strategy demanded concentration of naval strength in the North Sea."

Want Self-Government

Religious Intolerance Stands In The Way Of India's Advancement

Toronto.—India's trouble is not political, it is religious. The bitter and fanatical intolerance of the Mohammedans is the evil force which precludes a working agreement with the liberal-minded Hindus and obstructs the way to realization of national aspirations, according to Professor C. V. Raman, who holds the chair of physics in the University of Calcutta, India, and who is one of the most picturesque and most interesting visitors to the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

The great desire of the people of India is to obtain self-government," Professor Raman said, "and really they are not antagonistic to Britain. They wish to co-operate with Britain and to remain allies of Britain, but just now their great aim is to receive the same full nature of self-government as has been extended to Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the Irish Free State.

Duke Of York Not Coming To Canada

Is Sailing In November For British East Africa

London.—The Duke and Duchess of York will sail for British East Africa in November, it is announced. Their tour will include Kenya Colony and Uganda and will take three months. The Duke's engagements will likely include much big game hunting.

It was learned by the Canadian Press that there is absolutely no foundation for the suggestion that the Duke of York will visit Canada with the Prince of Wales.

No Pension Claims After This Month

War Veterans Must File Disability Claims Before Aug. 31st

Ottawa.—Canadian ex-service men are reminded in a bulletin issued by the Dominion Command of the Great War Veterans' Association that all claims for disability pensions will be outlawed after August 31, 1924.

The bulletin states that "every ex-service man who suffers from any disability, which he believed to be related to his war service, should file his claim immediately. Such action may not lead to an early adjustment in his favor, but he will secure the basis of full consideration ultimately, and protect himself in respect to any development of the disability."

This warning also applies to dependents' claims, except that application may be made within three years after death, or the date on which the applicant became dependent. The notification states further that "during recent years many disabled veterans have abandoned all hope of pension following the receipt of a communication from the Pensions Commissioners that the disability was not attributable to war service. These men are advised to again test their rights to pension."

Capture Assassins

Parties Guilty of Killing Mrs. Evans Are Taken By Mexican Authorities

Mexico City.—The assassins of Mrs. Rosaline Evans have been captured, according to a report given out at the war department. The report came from General Roberto Cruz, military commander in the State of Puebla, where Mrs. Evans was shot and instantly killed.

The guilty men have been brought to the city of Puebla, adequately guarded, the message from General Cruz said. Members of the Mexico City secret service and the secretary of the British legation accompanied the military authorities who made the arrests.

Appointed Manager Of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool

Regina.—Donald MacRae, of Regina, has been appointed general manager of the Saskatchewan wheat pool. Mr. MacRae is well known to the farming community throughout the province, his work with the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, Limited bringing him into close contact with grain growers. Mr. MacRae was acting chief superintendent of country elevators for the company in 1920, following the resignation of Mr. Thordarson, and in 1921 he received the appointment of chief superintendent.

Britain Receiving Dyes From Germany

During 1923-24 Value At Par Was $944,200

New York.—During the British financial year 1923-24, the British Government received reparation dyes from Germany valued, at par of exchange, at $944,200. The gross amount received for the sale of dye stuffs, which included an accumulation from previous years, amounted to $1,672,250, while the total amount of commission and all other charges incurred in disposing of the dyes, including freight from Germany and storage, was $194,640.

According to advices received by the Bankers' Trust Company of New York from its English information service, the value of the total amount of dyes received from Germany since these shipments commenced in 1920, was $5,501,900. The total amount received from sales was $6,971,000. The total amount of commissions and all other charges incurred in disposing of these dyes amounted to $1,062,670, or 15.21 per cent. of the sales.

Branch Line Construction

Active Work Has Commenced On C.N.R. Extension Work

Winnipeg.—Work has started on the Canadian National Railway Ravelbourg extension, to which royal assent was given about three weeks ago, according to announcement by officials of the company.

Steel is now being laid on the 11 miles of road, which was graded some time ago. On completion of this section operations will be extended to other authorized branch lines of the company within the province.

In addition to these lines, five others will be constructed in the other western provinces—three in Saskatchewan and one each in Alberta and British Columbia. The branch lines will cover a distance of 162 miles, and tenders for the clearing, grading and installation of culverts are now in the hands of the chief engineer. No contracts, however, have been awarded.

Air Pilot Killed In Crash

Cleveland.—Harold A. Kullberg, 28, one of the best-known airplane pilots in the country, and who, during the war as a lieutenant of the Royal Air Force, bagged 14 German planes, and Henry Dunker, 34, of Hudson, Ohio, were killed when a commercial airplane in which they were flying went into a nose dive and fell 2,000 feet near Hudson, Ohio.

JAIL SENTENCES FOR SMUGGLERS IS ADVOCATED

Ottawa.—Jail sentences for professional smugglers were advocated by a deputation representing textile and other industries of Canada which waited upon Premier Mackenzie King and members of the Cabinet to emphasize the gravity of the situation resulting from the growth of smuggling of goods into this country. R. Percy Sparks, President of the Association of Garment Workers, acted as spokesman for the deputation, and stressed the enormous extent to which smuggling had grown.

The deputation advocated stern measures to deal with the professional smugglers and suggested that if such measures were adopted steps would be taken by interested organizations to form a bureau to co-operate with the Government in the arrest of such persons.

It was claimed that many of the big textile firms were being driven to the verge of bankruptcy and that the country was losing an annual revenue estimated at not less than $10,000,000 through smuggling.

Following the conference, members of the deputation stated that they had received an excellent hearing and that the Government had promised that immediate attention would be given to the matter.

Harvest Soon In Manitoba

Wheat Cutting Will Be General By August 23rd

Winnipeg.—Wheat cutting will be general in Manitoba by August 23, according to the official crop report of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture. In a few isolated sections where crops are particularly late, the wheat harvest will be delayed until about September 1, the report says. The report adds that the crops are maturing gradually, and that the filling out stage is well progressed.

The recent rust scare is characterized as "greatly exaggerated," and, unless the rust develops faster from now on, "it should be only a small factor in connection with the earliest crop," the report states.

Damage from sawfly and hail and frost is reported as "negligible."

Swiss Planning To Climb Mount Everest

National Expedition Is Scheduled To Start Next Spring

Geneva.—Switzerland is preparing a national expedition which will attempt to ascend Mount Everest. The leader of the Swiss team, scheduled to start in the spring of 1925, is a well-known Swiss Alpinist who already has had experience in the Himalaya Mountains. His assistants will be some of Switzerland's best climbers, none over 35 years old.

The Swiss intend omitting the heavy oxygen apparatus carried by the British expedition which attempted the climb. Instead, they will carry small bottles of compressed and liquid oxygen to be injected by syringe and needle into the arteries if overcome by breathing difficulties.

No Harvesters From Britain

Transportation Companies Notified That None Will Be Needed

Ottawa.—There will be no harvester movement from the United Kingdom to Canada this year according to immigration authorities here. The Immigration Department regard it as inadvisable to permit a repetition of last year's influx of British men for work in the harvest fields of the west. Transportation companies have been notified of the Government's attitude in the matter. It is believed that there will be more Canadian farm labor available in the west this year than usual, and that whatever help is needed beyond that will be obtainable.

To Unearth Palace

London.—A sun-worshippers' palace will be completely unearthed in a region 160 miles south of Cairo next year by archaeologists of the Egyptian Exploration Society. It was announced at a meeting of the society here recently. The palace, as yet only half revealed, covers an area of 430 by 340 feet.

AT THE FOOT OF MT. HERMON
By Mrs. D. C. Eby

Prominently on the west of Damascus lies Mt. Hermon, which for most of the year has a snowy mantle. For this reason the Arabs call it "The Snow Mountain," and also "The White-haired Mountain."

Mt. Hermon has three peaks, and rises to a height of nine thousand feet. It is called the landmark of Palestine and Syria because the view from its summit embraces a great part of Syria. To the south can be seen the mountains of Ajlun extending towards Moab, then the Jordan, the Sea of Galilee, Samaria, Mt. Carmel and the Mediterranean. On the north are the Anti-Lebanons, and on the east the Syrian desert.

It may be interesting to some of our readers to learn that here on Mt. Hermon we probably have the foundation of much of our Canadian prosperity, as far as the wheat crops of the west are concerned.

In 1910 the American Department of Agriculture sent over a representative to investigate the report that wild wheat had been found growing on the slopes of Mt. Hermon. Independently he found the wheat on this mountain, and supported the conclusions of other scientists regarding it.
